Titration Automation

You are invited

The team at Metrohm Australia is holding a free workshop on Titration Automation that may be of interest to you or to your colleagues and employees. This hands-on workshop is aimed at anybody who performs titration in his or her laboratory - be it manually or using titration equipment/instruments.

Everyone who uses titration knows how simple and fast the technique can be.

Automating the complete analysis with sample preparation, electrode assembly rinsing or reagent solution addition will provide more accurate and reproducible results, re-analysis is minimized.

This workshop helps you overcome day-to-day challenges by looking at the full benefits offered with automation.

Who should attend?

- Anyone performing titration who wants to improve reproducibility and accuracy
- Those responsible for calibration, cleaning and storage techniques of electrodes

Workshop Instructors:

- Luis Puyo, Metrohm Titration Product Manager, Australia
- Isaac Rogers, Metrohm Titration Product Specialist, Australia
- Steven Tsalamandris, Territory Manager, Victoria
- Sam Bigum, Product Support Specialist, Victoria
