CAPTION: BioSystems' analytical reagents and instruments for agro and wine laboratories are now available and fully supported by Metrohm in Australia and New Zealand.

Metrohm Australia and Metrohm New Zealand welcome BioSystems Food and Wine Solutions

From April 1, 2018 the portfolios of Metrohm's local branches in Australia and New Zealand have been extended to include food and wine specific analytical solutions from BioSystems S.A.(Spain).

The full range of FoodQuality and Enology reagents and instruments is now available at Metrohm Australia and at Metrohm New Zealand. The 2 companies provide full support and service with manufacturer trained engineers and technicians to the region.

BioSystems S.A. has since 1981 developed and manufactured effective and reliable analytical systems for laboratories around the world. These systems are composed of photometric analyzers (automatic or semi-automatic), colorimetric (enzymatic and chemical) reagent kits, ELISA kits and rapid tests.

BioSystems' Enology line was specifically developed for wine laboratories, offering instruments and reagents designed and validated for the wine industry.

The FoodQuality line provides excellent analytical and control solutions for various sectors within the agri-food diagnostic industry, such as: juices and other beverages, meat and processed foods, fish and seafood, milk and dairy products, cereals/nuts and derivatives, etc.

Since it was first launched, the line has been introduced into new geographical regions and by 2017 had reached a total of fifteen countries, eight of them the largest wine producers in the world. These fifteen markets account for 88% of worldwide wine production: Spain, Italy, France, U.S.A., Argentina, Chile, Australia, China, Portugal, Russia, Romania, Brazil, New Zealand, Japan and Turkey.
